Key points covered during the webinar included:

- The role of community involvement in conservation initiatives.
- The impact of climate change on biodiversity and how restoring ecosystems can help mitigate this.
- Innovative technologies and methods for tracking and enhancing biodiversity.

❖ Audience Engagement

The webinar successfully engaged a diverse group of participants, including students, educators and local people of Amdabad and Barimal village. There were approximate 70 students who have successfully attended the online programme. Interactive Q&A sessions allowed for lively discussions and provided clarity on complex topics presented by the speakers.

❖ Outcomes

The webinar concluded with a collective call for action to integrate biodiversity conservation into local and global environmental policies. It also emphasized the need for ongoing education and community participation in restoration activities. Some specific outcomes are as follows-

1. Enhanced Awareness and Knowledge Sharing

- Participants gained a deeper understanding of biodiversity's role in ecological stability and human well-being. The event highlighted the interconnectedness of ecosystems and the consequences of biodiversity loss.
- The webinar facilitated the dissemination of latest research and practices in the fields of conservation and restoration.

2. Community Involvement and Empowerment

- The discussions underscored the importance of local community involvement in conservation efforts. Practical strategies were shared for communities to initiate or enhance their own conservation projects.
